What Does This Tell Us? Social Research Data and How to Come by It Mark Taylor

This book follows on from the highly popular 'Interacting With Statistics', by looking at the various sources and methods available to social researchers. The book is illustrated with some interesting and informative examples of the various methods, together with a critique on how those methods have been used or illustrated by some researchers. The book also looks at how the role of social research is itself, subject to social trends, over and above the social problems it seeks to address. The book also includes a research paper, written by the author, examining the press' reporting of legal cases (using the Jeffrey Archer perjury trial), by way of an evaluation of this source for legal and social scholars alike.
